How do stereotypes form & how do they affect our perceptions?
Are people's views of their traits, abilities, & accomplishments accurate?
Do emotions help or hamper good decision making?
Is romantic love the right basis for marriage?
Why do people join cults?

Seek the answers to these questions and more when you enroll in:

Intro to Social Psychology: PSY 3410

Coming your way this Summer Semester 2011

Monday, Wednesday 10:00a - 11:30a
Campus: Beh Sci 113

Explore the scientific literature on social psychology.
Develop an understanding of the social nature of human behavior.
Examine how people come to understand their social worlds and their selves, how people influence one another, and how relationships and groups form and work.

Instructor: Tamra Fraughton

For further information: tamra.fraughton@psych.utah.edu