PSYCH 3450
Cross-Cultural Psychology

What is culture and why do we care about it in understanding ourselves and others
Why "they" talk, eat, think and see things differently than us
How individualism and collectivism are reflected through our thoughts, emotions, and behaviors

This online course is designed to provide a survey of the psychological issues across a variety of cultures. In particular, this course will focus on how cultural influences shape our personality, ethnic identity, emotion, health, and relationships with people. It is designed to give students a foundation for understanding and addressing diversity issues in psychology. This course also meets criteria for the University of Utah’s Diversity Course Requirement. Hopefully, from this course, you will learn and understand how to be like us and them!

For additional information about online classes, please visit http://uonline.utah.edu or call 585-5959.

Instructor: Watch Pengchit
Contact: pengchit@gmail.com